

AFTERMATH—Two vehicles, involved in a head-on crash just north of Tannersville at about 3:30 a.m., yesterday, show the grim results of the impact. The auto was reported traveling north on Route 611 and the truck was southbound. The two vehicles met head-on in the center lane of the three-lane highway. George W. Glenn, 36, of New Kensington, Pa., was killed instantly in the crash. His body was pinned between the guard rails and wreckage of his auto. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Kennedy Views Win Of Ohio

By STERLING F. GREEN
WITH KENNEDY IN OHIO (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy Tuesday swept through cheering crowds in Cleveland and five other Ohio cities on his second campaign trip into the Buckeye State in three days. He predicted for the first time that he will win the great industrial state and its 25 electoral votes in November.

The Democratic nominee, hitting the campaign trail quickly after his television debate with Vice President Nixon Monday night, made a 200-mile auto and airplane swing through northern Ohio.

The tour wound up with a speech in Canton — hard hit by the half-capacity rate of national steel production — demanding that the nation rededicate itself under a Democratic administration to the "goal of full employment."

Tour A Triumph
Veteran political observers called Kennedy's tour a triumph. Sen. Frank J. Lausche and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said they had never seen anything to equal the throngs which jammed the streets of Cleveland early in the motorcade. But the Rubber City, Akron, turned out the nearest thing to a saturation crowd on this biggest day of Kennedy's eight-week campaign.

Akron's mayor said more than 50,000 turned out to greet the Massachusetts senator. Kennedy scored a political coup when Sen. Lausche, the maverick Democrat and five-time Ohio governor — who had been lukewarm to the nominee — jumped on the Kennedy bandwagon with both feet.

Lausche rode beside Kennedy for 51 miles, through Cleveland and on to Lorain, telling audiences en route that he would vote for Kennedy.

Enthusiastic swarms of supporters greeted the motorcade in Mansfield, Painesville and Canton, as well.

Lausche, a spectacular vote-getter even though usually at odds with party regulars, had boycotted the Sunday celebration. But Tuesday he was waiting in the misty morning at Helmeig's Inn, near Painesville, where the motorcade started.

The crowds were thinner in the prosperous Cleveland West Side. But Kennedy was making his pitch for Ohio's 25 electoral votes by appealing to industrial workers—many of them, in this area, of Polish, Czech and other Slavic origins.

At Lorain, Kennedy accused the Republican party of mere "pretense" in its 1952 slogan of "liberation" for the people of Eastern Europe.

"I say it's time to contain communism around the world and not only on Manhattan Island," Kennedy said. This referred to the governments order restricting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's movements during the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Resignation May Cause Trouble

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Edward B. Boyer, chairman of the Bucks County commissioners, said Tuesday if he resigns immediately — as many are pressing him to do — it would cause delay and complications in the issuance of $5.3 million worth of bonds for public building construction.

Boyer last week was charged with taking bribes to overlook Sunday blue law violations by county discount stores. He is a Republican.

John T. Welsh, treasurer of the Bucks County Democratic committee and a former commission chairman, Monday night joined with Thomas R. Lewis, a Republican and former commissioner, in demanding Boyer quit now.

Man Killed, Woman Hurt In Crash

A NEW KENSINGTON resident was killed instantly and a woman passenger was seriously injured early yesterday morning when the victim's auto crashed head-on with a truck less than half a mile north of Tannersville.

The accident, which happened about 3:30 a.m., took place in front of Johnson's Diner.

Mt. Pocono State Police identified the victim as George W. Glenn, 36, of New Kensington and president of Penn Glenn Oil Co. He suffered a crushed chest and multiple injuries, according to Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner.

The woman passenger was identified as Emily G. Leshinsky, 39, of Morgan, La., and an employee of Pocono Manor. She was admitted to Monroe County General Hospital. In a report late last night, the hospital said she was in critical condition.

The truck, driven by Terrill J. Fletcher, 22, of Stanhope, N.J., suffered burns, cuts, and bruises. He was treated at Monroe County Hospital and released.

Center-Lane Crash
State Police reported that the Glenn vehicle was heading north on Route 611 and the truck was going south. It was reported that the truck driver was passing another vehicle when the head-on collision occurred in the center lane of the three-lane highway.

Glenn was reportedly heading for the Pocono Manor Inn where he was attending a convention. He was pinned between the wreckage of his car and iron guard rails. The force of the crash tore the entire left side of the automobile away and hurled the car from the center lane off to the right side of the highway.

The truck careened out of control after the impact. It crossed the diner's parking lot, traveled down a steep embankment and burst into flames.

The truck fire was extinguished by the Pocono Township Fire Company, Tannersville. Fletcher posted a $1,000 bond on an involuntary manslaughter charge brought by State Police. The truck was owned by Roger & Casper, Great Meadows, N.J.

Venus Painting Is Stolen
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Lucas Cranach's Venus, a painting valued at $60,000 that was stolen from the City Art Gallery last December, has been found in a locker of the Munich railroad station, police reported Tuesday.

The paintings depicts Venus in the nude with a pearl-studded necklace and a veil over her bosom.

Demos Write Off Rights As An Issue

BOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Democratic governors wrote off civil rights Tuesday as a decisive factor in Southern voting in the presidential race.

Despite school integration controversies and the threat of lunch counter sit-ins, Dixie governors attending their 26th annual conference here agreed generally that the contest between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be decided on other issues.

Most of them took a "plague on both your houses" position—that both candidates are committed by their platforms to a civil rights stand likely to be highly displeasing to a majority of Southern voters.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas sounded what appeared to be the general viewpoint when he told a news conference that civil rights has ceased to be an issue because "both platforms are the same."

Daniel named foreign policy, a farm program, local control and financing of schools and the maintenance of state right to work laws as potentially decisive issues.

Heads For Cuba

Fidel Fires Final Fling

NEW YORK (AP)—Behind-the-scenes political maneuvering hit a fever pitch outside the United Nations Tuesday, with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro joining in for a final fling. President Eisenhower, before a late-afternoon departure for Washington, was among the busiest heads of state.

Castro announced he is returning to Havana Wednesday, the first of the visiting government leaders to depart from the U. N. General Assembly. He was described as satisfied with his mission to the U. N. — climaxed Monday by his 4½-hour speech to the assembly.

The Cuban revolutionary leader scheduled a series of predeparture conferences with President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Castro's departure was expected to ease the security burden on New York's harassed police force. Next to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Castro has provided the biggest security headache because of emotions he aroused in friend and foe.

Among First

Castro was one of the first U.N. visitors to arrive in New York. Sept. 18. His stay here has been marked by street rioting, and the accidental slaying of a 9-year-old girl during a melee among Cuban demonstrators.

One of Eisenhower's final appointments before returning to

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Steering Committee Tuesday night overrode Soviet objections and voted to shelve for another year the question of seating Red China in the world organization. The vote in the 21-nation body was 12-7 with one abstention. This was exactly the same vote the committee recorded a year ago on the same proposal.

Although the outcome had been expected, it was nevertheless an important setback to the Soviet U.N. delegation led by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The vote was on a U.S. resolution which provided specifically that no action be taken on the China representation question during the 15th session of the 96-nation General Assembly. Ratification of the Steering Committee action by the full assembly seemed assured in view of the preliminary vote.

Sharp Clash

The committee acted after a sharp clash between U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth and the Soviet Union's Valerian Z. Zorin.

Zorin declared that the Chinese Communist government is totally unfit for U.N. membership because of what he called its open contempt for the United Nations and its aggressive acts in Korea and other neighboring Asian countries.

Leading off the debate on one of the assembly's most controversial issues, Wadsworth detailed the record of the Peiping regime in recent years, charging that it practices violence and subversion and is guilty of outrageous behavior.

He mentioned specifically the overthrow of the Dalai Lama's government in Tibet, threats of war against the Nationalist China and intervention in the Congo.

"We cannot seriously consider admitting a country to the United Nations," he said, "when the same country is attacking this organization and its members for engaging in a task at the mandate of the Security Council and the General Assembly."

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zo-rin described the U.S. position on the China representation question as "judicious" and said the delay in seating the Communist Chinese government is becoming more and more unbearable.

The Soviet Union is formally pushing the admission of the Peiping regime since Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru decided India would not take the initiative as it had in the past few years.

He said there was no basis for denying the Peiping regime a seat.

Soviet Support

This was the first major Soviet declaration of support for the Peiping regime at the current assembly session. Premier Nikita Khrushchev mentioned the Communist Chinese government only briefly in his policy speech last Friday.

Zorin blasted the United States for allegedly trying to keep the "greatest power in the world" out of the United Nations by bringing up unfounded arguments.

"The United States," he said, "from year to year has been introducing the same resolution and has been hampering the United Nations and preventing it from rectifying a grave defect in its membership, which emerged some time ago. This acts as a brake on the normal activities of the United Nations."

Supporting the U. S. proposal to shelve the issue were Britain, France, Nationalist China, United States, Panama, Italy, Costa Rica, Haiti, Pakistan, Canada, Venezuela and Japan. Voting against it were the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, Ceylon, Iraq and Sudan. Libya abstained and the assembly president, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, did not vote.

Khru Makes New Bid For Neutrals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev proposed Tuesday to bring neutralist nations into world disarmament negotiations, but the United States received his bid with deep skepticism.

The Soviet premier's proposal was regarded as a new bid to impress the neutral nations in view of obvious defeat in his attempt to gain their support for his proposed overhauling of the U.N.'s peace-making machinery.

At the same time, strong neutralist pressure to bring about a fresh start on East-West disarmament talks was underscored by a proposal from General Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic that President Eisenhower and Khrushchev get together and clear a path for resumed talks on arms.

The Nasser proposal, however, seemed foredoomed. These were the highlights of another day in the memorable 15th session of the General Assembly. As the day ended, the spotlight swung momentarily back once again to Latin America.

Interference
Two Latin American governments laid before the assembly charges of interference by Cuba's revolutionary regime under Fidel Castro. Guatemala charged Cuba was helping prepare an invasion to overthrow its present government. Paraguay complained the Cuban regime is propagandizing there for revolution.

The complaints followed Castro's marathon speech Monday in which, among other things, he called for revolt all through Latin America and violently denounced the United States.

To Castro's cascade of charges, the United States — through Ambassador James J. Wadsworth — replied with deliberate calm, expressing confidence in the mutual esteem of the Cuban and American people and promising a document answering all Castro's charges in detail.

U.S. sources, meanwhile, said they believed Khrushchev was aware his proposal to change the structure of the U.N. Secretariat and abolish Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's job had no chance of succeeding, and that the Russians probably would confine themselves to attempts to harass Hammarskjöld.

The proposal by Nasser, a leading spokesman for the Arab and Moslem world, indicated a neutralist hope that Khrushchev and Eisenhower might be brought face to face once again in an attempt to ease dangerous tensions.

One Year Period 'Untruths' Nixon Claims Of Talks

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, accusing John F. Kennedy of untruths about hungry Americans, said Tuesday the best hope for help for distressed areas of West Virginia lies in a Republican electoral victory.

The Republican presidential nominee flew into Charleston after a sixth political invasion of the South. He went after Kennedy there on grounds that his Democratic rival talks differently in different parts of the nation. Nixon tied this in with the civil rights issue—an issue on which he once more called for progress before a Dixie audience.

The vice president received a blazes-winging, foot-stomping, hand-clapping welcome in Memphis, Tenn.

In remarks prepared for delivery here in the capital of a state which has felt the economic pinch, Nixon said that when Kennedy was in Charleston two weeks ago he charged the Republicans were coldly indifferent to unemployment and distress in West Virginia.

Cries Foul

He neglected to say, Nixon added, that special legislation to help distressed areas was fathered by the Eisenhower administration, not Congress, and that for years the administration tried unsuccessfully to get sensible legislation through the Democratic controlled congress.

Actually, he said, Congress vetoed the Eisenhower bill, passed something different, "then cried foul when the President firmly replied that he still wanted a law that made sense."

Furthermore, Nixon said, Kennedy should correct what he termed "his false statement to the effect that 17 million people go to bed hungry every night in the United States."

Nixon has hit Kennedy on this issue before, but not in such tough language.

Standing on a rainswept Mississippi riverfront in Memphis before thousands of cheering Southerners, Nixon brought up the civil rights issue.

"A candidate for the presidency of the United States," he said, "has the responsibility to talk the same, North, East, South or West. I regret my opponent, since his nomination, has not done that."

Four Speeches
Kennedy didn't mention civil rights during four speeches in Tennessee last week. Nixon said he has done so on every political expedition he has made into Dixie.

Reaffirming his support for the GOP platform plank on civil rights, Nixon declared: "In this era, all Americans must move forward. We must leave none behind."

Big 3 Reconvene Test Ban Parley

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Three nuclear test ban conference reopened Tuesday with a U.S. offer to conduct no underground nuclear explosions if the Soviet Union joins in a co-ordinated 27-month research program to improve methods for detecting the cause of underground disturbances.

The issue of how to detect hidden nuclear blasts has been among the chief obstacles in efforts by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to reach agreement to ban nuclear weapons tests.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said he welcomed the U.S. proposal and would study it. Sir Michael Wright, the British delegate, said Britain fully backed the U.S. offer.

5-Week Recess

Acting U.S. Delegate Charles C. Stelle, in a move to get the resumed negotiations off to a good start after a five-week recess, said the moratorium would run concurrently with a two-year co-ordinated research program. Another three months were added for analyzing the research data.

Tsarapkin said he hoped the proposal does not mean that the United States intends to resume nuclear testing after two years. He said he felt the moratorium period offered was too short, but that he hoped a compromise could be reached.

Stelle expressed American hopes to Tsarapkin that the Soviet Union would agree soon to a joint three-power research program.

Some Of Congo's Economy Near Complete Collapse

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The chief of U.N. civil operations in the Congo warned Tuesday that disaster faces the young nation while its squabbling politicians continue their maneuvers for personal power.

Sture Linnér of Sweden told a news conference that in some fields the Congo's economy is within a few weeks of complete collapse.

Linnér said his problem is in trying to deal with three different governments "that are trying to ignore each other and, at the same time, are afraid of each other." While the country's situation becomes more threatening and more alarming every day.

The three rivals are the deposed premier, Patrice Lumumba; Premier-designate Joseph Ileo, who was named to succeed Lumumba by President Joseph Kasavubu; and the government commission run by the current strongman, Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Linnér said he has the money and the staff to begin at once to revive the Congo's chaotic administration, provided that necessary support comes from Congo authorities.

Ileo asked a conference of political leaders to meet in Leopoldville "very soon" to seek a way out of the constitutional crisis.

He made it clear that Lumumba will not be welcome. Ileo issued a statement declaring "there can be no question of a reconciliation" between President Kasavubu and Lumumba.

Kasavubu fired Lumumba Sept. 5 and appointed Ileo to replace him. Ileo has never submitted his embryo government for approval by the Congo parliament, which has a pro-Lumumba majority.

Conference sources said he indicated the United States may go ahead with its own program, failing Soviet agreement in the near future.

It was not clear whether Stelle mentioned the earlier announced code-named Vela program of nuclear research blasts. But he reiterated President Eisenhower's assurance earlier this year that the United States would not start testing without prior announcement.

Conference sources stressed that there has been no sign so far that the Soviet Union will agree to a coordinated research program at any time before a nuclear test ban treaty is signed.

West Will Use Nuclear Retaliation

LONDON (AP)—Britain warned the Communist world Wednesday that the West would retaliate with nuclear weapons in the event of aggression in Europe.

The determination of the Western nations to protect themselves with all the devices in their arsenal was expressed in a 46-page booklet published by the Foreign Office.

The booklet was issued at a time when the whole arm question was approaching the center of the stage at the U.N. General Assembly in New York. It also corresponded with new efforts by Communist East Germany to put the squeeze on West Berlin. Its approach appeared intended to answer the arguments of Britons who want to "ban the bomb."

"To promise not to be the first to use nuclear arms, even in self-defense," the booklet said, "would mean presenting a free gift to a potential aggressor."

"In any case there could be no guarantee that any paper renunciation of the use of nuclear weapons would in fact be observed. The Soviet call for this renunciation contrasts oddly with the various Soviet threats to use rockets against Western and other countries."

"Therefore, so long as there is no effective agreement on disarmament, it will be necessary to retain the whole range of defensive armory."

Home Building In State Down

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Labor and Industry Department said Tuesday building operations in Pennsylvania are in an unseasonable slump.

The department said the downward trend, matching a nationwide drop, indicates that a five year climb in all kinds of construction activity has reached and passed its peak.

The value of August construction was $62,274,776, a drop of 17.4 percent from the $75,404,210 record the previous month. The department said its figures were based on permits issued by 681 municipalities.

15 Fourth-Class School Districts To Get Subsidies

Record Harrisburg Bureau

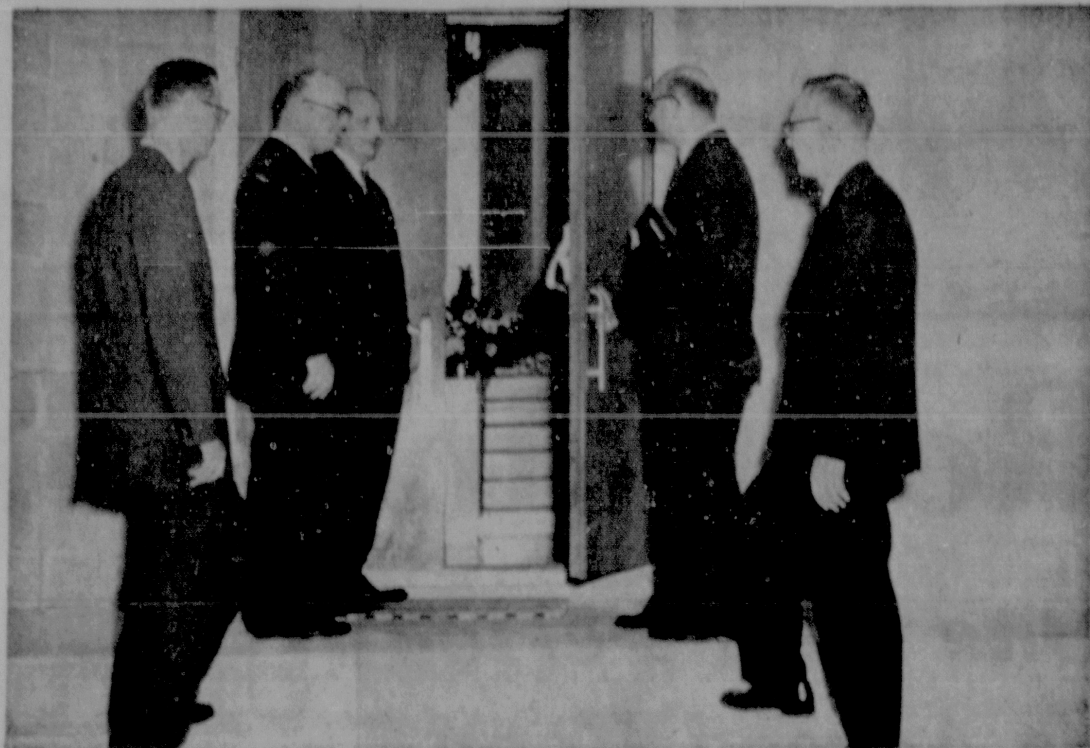

HARRISBURG — Fifteen fourth class school districts in Monroe County on October 3 will begin receiving $243,912.21 in state subsidy payments, a check by the Record disclosed today.

The payments represent the first semi-annual state reimbursement for the 1959-60 school year and total $54,895,327 to nearly 1800 fourth class districts throughout Pennsylvania. Payments are now being processed for individual school districts by State Auditor General Charles C. Smith and State Treasurer Robert F. Kent, after which checks will be forwarded to the State Department of Public Instruction for distribution.

Monroe County school districts and the amount each will receive as certified by the department include:

Barrett Township, $13,610.78; Chestnut Hill Township, $27,576.80; Coolbaugh Township, $26,076.78; Eldred Township, $13,396.47; Jackson Township, $16,063.00; Middle Smithfield Township, $13,319.79; Mt. Pocono Borough, $7,589.73; Paradise Township, $29,253.53; Pocono Township, $30,575.37; Price Township, $3,277.06; Ross Township, $12,321.01; Smithfield Township, $30,191.12; Tobyhanna Township, $9,124.07; Tunkhannock Township, $4,375.12.

The payments now being made cover reimbursable teaching units, supplemental payment on account of jointure membership or union and merged districts, extension education, homebound instruction, closed schools, and special education. Subsidy payments to first, second and third class districts will be made in November.

Vannan spoke briefly on the progress of the firm's new building in Stroud Township and thanked the chamber for making it possible for the firm to relocate here.

Entertainment was provided by Al Flosso, the Coney Island Fakir, a comedian and magician.

The program was arranged by the chamber's public relations committee including Clyde Burke, J. Joseph McCluskey and William Nixon.

Television Disturbance Diagnosed

AREA residents with television sets have been getting some unusual optical illusions during the past several days.

Reports received by television repairmen indicate channels as far away as Baltimore, Boston and even Wyoming have been appearing on local screens.

The condition, known as co-channel interference, is caused by atmospheric conditions and nothing can be done about it—except wait for better weather.

Lions Plan Drive On Eyes For Bank

AN INTENSIFIED campaign to get persons to donate the use of their eyes after death was launched at Thursday's meeting of the Stroudsburg Lions Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Walter Hicks, chairman of the Northeast Pennsylvania Lions Eye Bank, Inc., was the principal speaker.

He told the group that 100 eyes have been donated so far through the eye bank which has 31 sub-stations, including one at Monroe County General Hospital.

Four of the eyes have been donated through the local Lions Club, of which Dr. Paul R. Maxwell is eye chairman.

The last two eyes were donated by Mrs. Gladys Adams in August and represented the 97th and 98th donated through the bank.

Hicks said a total of 158 Lions Clubs in 27 counties are supporting the eye bank campaign, but said additional donors are needed.

He urged persons interested in leaving their eyes to aid restore sight to a less fortunate person to contact a member of any Lions Club or use the form reproduced in this newspaper.

After the form has been mailed to eye bank headquarters at 2136 Freemansburg Ave., Easton, the donor will receive a card which he should carry on his person at all times directing that, in the event of his death, his eyes should be removed promptly by a physician.

Motorist 'Prayed She Was Alive'

"I PRAYED she was still alive."

In those words Henry N. Kennedy, Jr., 20, South Orange, N.J., and Buck Hill Falls, described his reaction to the first sight of the body of Virginia Scally, as it lay beside Route 290 early on the morning of Aug. 21.

Kennedy took the stand in his own defense yesterday during the second day of his trial on charges of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Miss Scally, 18, of 806 Willow Grove Ave., Wyndmoor.

Under direct examination by James C. Scanlon, defense attorney, Kennedy recounted the events of the Saturday evening preceding the accident about 1:15 a.m. Sunday.

Attended Party

Kennedy testified that he attended a dinner party, took his date home and was en route to the Old Barn to see if any of his friends were there when the accident occurred.

He testified that he had two drinks before dinner and two cans of beer afterward — no later than about 10 p.m.

Kennedy told the jury of nine men and three women he was blinded by lights of an oncoming car as he rounded a sharp curve about three miles south of Canadensis.

He said he applied his brakes before entering the curve and was about 20 to 30 yards from the group of girls including Miss Scally when he realized they were there.

Kennedy said he tried to drive between the group of girls and the oncoming car.

Felt Impact

"If I had it to do over again, I'd hit the car," he testified.

He said he did not see Miss Scally at any time prior to hitting her. He felt the impact when his car struck her, stopped after pulling over to the side of the highway, walked back and saw her body lying face down beside the road.

The defense will continue presenting witnesses when court reconvenes at 9 a.m. today. Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh is presenting the Commonwealth's case.

Mt. Pocono Rotary Club Holds Picnic

THE MOUNT Pocono Rotary Club held its annual family picnic at Brookdale-on-the-Lake with more than 75 Rotarians and their families present.

Special contests and games were arranged for the children and the finale of the afternoon was a volley ball game with the Rotarians and the Rotary-Anns on the other side. The Rotary-Anns won the game, although the score was close.

Box lunches were served and the event was concluded with the presentation of many prizes and community singing. The committee in charge was Richard Madsoud, assisted by Berne Cramer, Al Stets, Reis Dengler, and Eric Danisch.

Nixon-Lodge Bandwagon Operation

LAUNCHING a dual "Nixon-Lodge Bandwagon Operation" in New York City on Monday, Oct. 3, was announced yesterday by Peter M. Flanigan, national director of the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge.

Flanigan said the Bandwagon Operation consists of two 35-foot tractor-trailer units, bedecked with large photographs and banners, and painted brilliant white.

The huge units will accompany both Nixon and Lodge, leapfrogging the route to each key city where the two will appear. They will serve as mobile speaking platforms for the candidates, as "parade commanders," as centers of campaign activity, and as rallying points for millions of Americans turning out to see the two campaigners.

"The Nixon-Lodge Bandwagon Operation," said Flanigan, "is patterned after the famous Eisenhower campaign Bandwagon of 1952, '54 and '56. The Operation is being organized by C. Langhorne Washburn of New York City, who was chairman of the Eisenhower units."

Flanigan said the two Bandwagons will be equipped with self-contained speaking platforms, spotlights, public address systems, generators and facilities for distribution of campaign materials, literature and press information.

New Crutches Do Not???

"THESE new crutches do not mean I'm a candidate for Easter Seal 1960," George Reimer, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Society of the Crippled Children and Adults Assn. Inc., wryly told members of the Monroe County society at their annual meeting yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

"However, it has been an educating and humbling experience to be on the other side of this crutch business," said the man who since 1946 has worked with the Pennsylvania Society and its branches which have provided orthopedic aids, surgery, and retraining to thousands of physically handicapped persons.

While his own handicap is temporary, the result of a recent heel operation, the problems of crippling defects will not be banished from the world by medical science, whose advances change but do not eradicate problems, he warned.

With Salk vaccine, for instance, the emphasis shifts from orthopedic aids to education for polio prevention and leaves the problems of cerebral palsy, speech and hearing defects and the chronic disabilities of old age untouched, he pointed out.

Stresses Value

He also stressed the value of helping the whole person rather than a single diagnostic cause, with vocational rehabilitation, education, social and recreational opportunities of increasing importance.

He congratulated the local society for their 38 percent increase in Easter Seal funds under the direction of Pearley Webster this year, and challenged them to spend it wisely in the field of voluntary contributions where the increase in giving must keep pace with the increasing need for such services and the increasing costs.

Mrs. C. B. Rosenkrans presided at the meeting when officers were elected for 1960-61:

President, Ruth E. Brown; first vice president, J. Nelson Westbrook; second vice president, Perley M. Webster Jr.; treasurer, Clarence Rutt; and re-elected as secretary, Mrs. Victor Koch.

Mrs. Evangeline Henry was elected as a new director of the Society.

Guests included Mrs. Ann Shafer, R.N. and Miss Gladys Mervin R.N. of the Pennsylvania Dept. of Health of Monroe County; Bobby Westbrook of the Daily Record and Mr. and Mrs. George Reimer.

Directors present included Mrs. Carl B. Rosenkrans, Dr. John A. Abbruzzese, Jr., Perley M. Webster, Mrs. Roman J. Batory, Alex Bensinger, Mrs. Ruth E. Brown, Howard L. Keiper, Sr. and Mrs. Keiper, Warren McNeill, Mrs. Charles Mott, Mrs. Charles E. Reinhart, Mrs. John L. Rumsey, Clarence S. Rutt, Mrs. William R. Webb, C. T. J. Willis, Dr. Bennett Strait, and Mrs. Victor Koch.

BATTERIES

M.V.-6-8-12 Volt

The most electrifying development of the past 60 years — a new liquid formula for batteries. This liquid formula was "torture tested" on over 10,000 cars for over a period of 5 years. It has been tested and approved by the Underwriters Laboratories.

A Revolutionary break thru in battery manufacture of the most powerful battery, unequalled for its type or size on the market today. An outstanding achievement... A 12 volt auto battery with 150 ampere delivery... An auto battery now built for the life of your car. With truck batteries a possible 5 year life.

Sensational low prices for power packed batteries. Several railroads have selected our batteries for their diesel locomotive starting power. No argument can compete with such a dramatic demonstration of durability and staying power.

Unfair Provision

In the heat of Congressional debate over the omnibus Social Security bill which President Eisenhower has signed into law, little attention was paid to an amendment. This was the change in the earnings limitation in the work rule.

Under the old formula, earnings of retired persons covered by Social Security insurance were limited to $1,200 a year. For each $80 or fraction thereof earned above the $100 monthly limit, the worker lost a month's Social Security benefits.

In other words, the law penalized enterprising elderly persons who were able and willing to work for greater financial independence.

The new law retains the $1,200 annual limit and the $100 monthly requirement. But instead of having one month's benefit withheld for every $80 (or fraction) above $1,200, 50 cents in benefits will be withheld for every $1 earned between $1,200 and $1,500.

Above $1,500, the worker would lose $1 in benefits for each $1 earned. In effect this amounts to a 100 per cent tax on income.

In explaining the new law, Arthur Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, described the change in the retirement test as "liberalizing." That's hardly the word for it. The new formula is better than the old, but the improvement is paltry.

At best, the Social Security work rule is paradoxical. It puts a premium on idleness, placing obstacles in the way of those retired persons who would be happier making a productive contribution to the national economy.

At the same time, the law places no limit on how much a retired person may receive in the way of dividends, interest and rents.

If there is no justification for a ceiling on unearned income, then there should be none on the fruits of labor.

Perhaps the next session of Congress will be reminded that Social Security is not a dole, as the work rule seems to interpret it, but insurance for which the insured has paid and to which he has an unencumbered right.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Right To Criticize

While we disagree with much of what Mr. Kennedy says about U.S. defenses and foreign policy, he is perfectly right to reject Vice President Nixon's request for a "truce" in the campaign while Khrushchev prowls at the United Nations.

The Soviet dictator, we suspect, is not so ill-informed of U.S. military strength that he will be tempted into a risky provocation by campaign oratory. Indeed, the enemy of the U.S. may know more about this country's capabilities and shortcomings than the American people—a bad situation that surely can be corrected by responsible partisan debate.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Important Contests

While the election of the President is very important, it is never the whole story. In our form of government, the center of power is in the Congress, in both Houses, and the election of Senators and Representatives is equally vital to the welfare of the nation.

Only too often, they are passed over in the excitement of the Presidential campaign, particularly in these days when television makes the debate more exciting than it really is.

During both Eisenhower Administrations the Congress was usually Democratic which made for delay and confusion. Were it not for the statesmanship of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic Leader in the Senate and now candidate for Vice President, and Speaker Sam Rayburn, the business of the country would have been at a standstill.

For it is Congress that appropriates the money for government operations and which determines fundamental government policy. The administrative agencies of government also make policy by day-by-day procedures, but it is Congress which can undo anything that an administrative agency does or can even abolish the agency.

On the whole, the Congress of the United States is a superior body of men who represent every section of the country and every phase of American life. There is still a predominance of lawyers, but there are also businessmen, labor union men, professors in universities, farmers, almost every kind of person. It is a cross-section of American life and truly representative.

The tendency in recent years in both parties has been to elect to the Senate and the House of Representatives candidates who are neither conservatives nor radicals. Among the conservatives who remain in the Congress, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is up for re-election this year.

Senator Bridges is the leader of the Republicans in the Senate. He has been in the Senate 24 years and has served on some of its most important committees. His influence upon his Republican colleagues has been enormous, particularly since the death of Senator Robert A. Taft to whose position he succeeded.

It is very important for the conservative elements in the country that Senator Bridges be re-elected this year. So few men of his experience and quality remain in the upper house.

He may, for the first time in his career, encounter some difficulty should Senator John Kennedy carry New Hampshire as he well may. Senator Bridges is popular in his state and the assumption is that he will be re-elected.

Another Republican whose re-election to the Senate is regarded as essential to the continuity of the Republican leadership is Senator Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota. Senator Mundt in both the House of Representatives and the Senate has been supporting sound legislation and has served on some of the most important committees of Congress.

It was while Karl Mundt was temporarily presiding over the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Richard Nixon, then a novice in Congress, found his opportunity to uncover the activities of Alger Hiss. Mundt played an enormous role in uncovering Communist infiltration in government, a condition which is now exposing itself again.

It is interesting that both Senators Bridges and Mundt started their careers as teachers. Among the Democrats, conservatives will favor Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas who has been a member of the Senate Committee on Government Operations.

He has been a firm supporter of the Hoover Commission recommendations. As presiding officer of the principal investigations into subversion and into labor union practices, he has been outstandingly judicial as well as judicious.

I mention only these three because were I a voter in their states, I would vote for these men. They have had long service, know how our particular and peculiar government functions and understand how the Congress operates in relationship to the Executive.

One of the difficulties that a newcomer to Congress faces is his assumption that the Congress is a debating society, not a working body. The orators soon discover that the leadership lies not among those who, like Senator Wayne Morse, talk a lot but rather among those, like Senators Bridges, Mundt and McClellan, who work hard.

In a Presidential election it is too often overlooked that other names are on the ballots. This leads to what is called the straight vote; that is, for all on the same line with the Presidential candidate. Often excellent men are lost to the country because of this.

Inside You And Yours

Emotional Stress

Your head's caught in a tightening vice, thousands of butterflies are flapping their wings in your stomach and your heart's beating out Morse code messages in Chinese, but the doctor assures you "It's just nerves."

Even so, these pains and feelings are mighty real to you.

Throughout history men have linked the physical and emotional, although they often connected the wrong organ with the right symptom.

The ancient Greeks blamed hysterical behavior on the womb — called "hyster" in Greek. Beautiful romantic love has always been linked to an unglamorous hunk of fat and muscle called the heart. Today we know that the brain and nervous system bridge that mysterious gap between the physical and emotional.

How It's Done

Conscious feelings are phoned down from the cauliflower top of the brain to a small, pea-sized area known as the hypothalamus. Like an operator, the hypothalamus relays the message over long-distance nerves to various internal organs, depending on the code area dialed. When the same original message — the same conscious feeling — reaches different organs, it causes totally different symptoms.

These long-distance nerves, technically called autonomic nerves, work automatically to control your internal organs. If these autonomic nerves work overtime, they may damage body tissue, foul up function, or simply produce unpleasant sensations.

Formation Of Ulcers

Ulcers develop when the hypothalamus continually dials the stomach. At first, the stomach secretes excess acid and wiggles like a caterpillar hopped up with Benzedrine. But eventually a hole or ulcer is eaten away in the stomach lining.

The school lavatory can be your laboratory if you want to study how emotions affect body function.

Before important examinations, crowds of students flow in and out of bathrooms, because anxiety makes things flow through their kidneys faster. At the same time their hearts pound irregularly.

When autonomic nerves cause unpleasant sensations, the agony is very real, even though nothing on the x-ray or under the microscope accounts for the symptoms. The migraine or tension headache is "just nerves," yet it feels like an imaginary steel band tightening around the head while hundreds of demons pound the skull again and again with fairy-magic sledge hammers.

Everything Affected

Even "true diseases" are affected by emotion; these emotional effects may account for most of the symptoms.

And so every disease, regardless of its underlying cause, can be helped by relieving the emotional stress and anxiety accompanying it.

Many times bizarre cures work because patients, believing the treatment will work, lose their anxiety. The touch of a faith healer, stronger prayer, colored electric bulbs and medicines with no therapeutic value have all cured alarming and incapacitating symptoms.

Pink-colored aspirins often work where ordinary aspirins fail because patients don't recognize the colored pills and have more faith in them. Frequently the strongest narcotics don't work because the patient is convinced "the medicine's no good."

Many doctors, ignorant of their own ignorance, feel that when they can't find anything physically wrong, the symptoms must be psychosomatic—a fancy word meaning just nerves.

That's not enough.

Doctors Fooled

In addition, psychosomatic symptoms must correlate perfectly with emotional upsets. You and Yours should be very careful before you call any symptoms "just nerves"; even doctors have been fooled.

Some years back a young lady was referred to a psychiatrist because she broke out in a rash whenever she argued with her husband. Small disagreements didn't affect her skin, but if things were bad enough to send her home to mother, she broke out in itchy red blotches.

All the doctors were impressed by this psychosomatic rash until an exterminator explained the whole affair. He discovered bedbugs in the mother's home!

Reports From Congress

Kennedy Machine

(First of two articles on the Presidential Campaign organizations)

By Congressional Quarterly
Washington — The Presidential campaign organization of Sen. John F. Kennedy emphasizes — in tune with his entire campaign — Kennedy's identity with the Democratic Party. The party tone of the Kennedy operation contrasts with non-party, individual appeal of Richard M. Nixon's campaign, to be discussed in a following article.

Following Kennedy's nomination July 12 at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles, "Kennedy men" moved quickly to take over the operations of the Democratic National Committee. National Committee staff members were not fired, but they found Kennedy organization men installed in their offices and charged with substantive responsibility for operations. Kennedy's hand-picked candidate, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (Wash.), was picked as the new Democratic national chairman.

Among the important Kennedy men now running the committee are Robert F. Kennedy, the senator's brother, who acts as national campaign manager; Lawrence F. O'Brien of Springfield, Mass., director of organization; P. Kenneth O'Donnell, former assistant to Robert Kennedy on the McClellan Senate Rackets Committee, who directs schedules and itineraries; and Stephen E. Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, who is in charge of fund raising and financing.

The Kennedy forces have been anxious to avoid what they felt was a serious error of past Democratic campaigns — a campaign organization working independently and sometimes at cross-purposes with the National Committee.

Through elimination of duplicated effort and through fully coordinated campaign efforts — making use of Kennedy representatives from the top management of the National Committee all the way down into the states — the Kennedy organization hopes to capitalize on normal Democratic registration leads and local Democratic organizations.

Out-of-State Coordinators — In a unique departure in campaign organization, individual Kennedy-Johnson "coordinators" have been appointed for most states. These are men whose prime loyalty is to the Kennedy organization rather than to Democratic state or local committees, and in almost all cases they are out-of-staters. The theory is that out-of-staters can get quick action during the campaign because they pose no long-term threat to the authority of established party leaders in the states.

The coordinators are directly responsible to Kennedy headquarters in Washington, to which they report frequently by phone and at least once a week in writing on all phases of the Kennedy-Johnson campaign in their assigned areas. Examples of Kennedy coordinators are William Walton, Washington artist, former newspaperman and close friend of Kennedy's who is coordinator for New York City, and Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the Senator's brother, who coordinates campaign efforts in California. The coordinator for Pennsylvania is Walter Sheridan.

With the party apparatus fully coordinated into his own campaign, Kennedy can campaign for President as the chief of the Democratic Party in a country which now votes normally Democratic.

The Pennsylvania Story

Election Trend

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — With the Nov. 8 election little more than a month away, at this point there still appears little evidence to substantiate a trend — either way in Pennsylvania.

This in itself is not unusual for the Keystone State — more particularly so in recent years. The peculiar complexity of the electorate make-up of the state as a whole — within exceptionally wide nationality and socioeconomic ranges — always has made it difficult to establish pre-election trends.

The gradual passing in more contemporary times of the once air-tight political machines and the almost inexorable pushing to the fore of the uncontrolled or independent vote have combined to reduce the art of "trend-searching" in Pennsylvania to an even more uncertain status.

Discounting for the moment the choric and oft-times rattled public claims of state leaders here in Harrisburg, recent discussions by this column with editors in various sections of the state Republican and Democratic county leaders and perhaps more important, re-election-seeking members of the State Legislature on both sides of the aisle—these thoughts seem to predominate:

1. The presidential race, in Pennsylvania between Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kennedy will be close, with Mr. Nixon—at the moment—perhaps having a slight edge. (Interestingly, several Democrats "reluctantly" concur in this possibility.)

2. The vice-presidential race between Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Henry Cabot Lodge is a factor — but without the emphasis that marked the Estes Kefauver-Nixon flurry of four years ago. The strength of both however in Pennsylvania is completely unknown but expected to develop — either plus or minus—within the next month as they hit the Pennsylvania campaign trail.

3. The registration edge Democrats are expected to come up with over Republicans when the books are finally and officially tabulated (first such Democratic edge in the history of the state) is not regarded as a convincing factor—the point being made that within the past six years Pennsylvania Democrats have won even though Republicans maintained the registration edge in their favor. The same could develop this year in favor of Republicans — not withstanding the expected Democratic registration edge.

4. The feeling is general, even among some Democrats, that the "record" of the Democratic Lawrence Administration of the past 20 months of office has been and is being a little overplayed in the current non-gubernatorial campaign—but again it was generally agreed that it would be some sort of an influencing factor in favor of the Democratic cause.

5. As far as the composition of the 1961 State Legislature is concerned, most felt—Democrats make-up would be largely dependent upon the presidential swing throughout the state, that is, a Nixon victory would stand an even chance of setting up both House and Senate in Republican control.

6. Most agreed that the two state fiscal offices up for consideration in Nov.—Auditor General and State Treasurer—would pretty much follow the pattern set up in the presidential race. As a postscript it should be noted that these generalizations were in no sense a poll of a cross-section of the state.

Those contacted were merely asked for expressions of local feeling as it appeared to them—in contrast to the daily utterances from party leadership here in the State Capital. From the overall standpoint, indications are that any sort of trend of a conclusive nature remains to be established on the Pennsylvania scene. It may be there by Nov. 7!

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton
Oct. 26 will see the fourth and eight cent "Champion of Liberty" set honoring Field Marshal Baron Karl Gustaf Mannerheim — Liberator of Finland first day sale in Washington, D.C.

Marshal Mannerheim was born in Askainen, June 4, 1857. He attended the Finnish Military Academy, 1882-1886, passed his examination in 1887 and attended Nikolayev's Cavalry School 1887-1889.

From 1889 until 1914, he served in the Russian Czar's forces during the last years of Russia's regency over Finland and not only commanded mounted troops, but served at the Court Ministry and at the Officers Cavalry Academy, and at one time commanded the Empress Ulan Regiment Bodyguard. He also participated in the Russo-Japanese war.

At the outbreak of World War I he was commander of the Separate Guards Cavalry Brigade in Warsaw. He held several commands as a major general in World War I from 1914 until the Czarist armies disintegrated. On Jan. 28, 1918 he was appointed supreme commander of the Finnish Army, liberated the country and marched into Helsinki May 16, 1918.

He resigned his army command and accepted temporarily the regency, while working for the recognition of Finland's independence by France and Great Britain.

Twenty years later he was called upon to defend his country against aggression from the Soviet Union. During the Winter war and World War II, Mannerheim was the highest leader of the Finnish defense forces; a uniting power who enjoyed absolute trust and the highest esteem.

With the end of hostilities he was elected president of the Republic in 1944 and it was then his task to lead the country in peace. He died in 1951.

The four cent value will be printed in blue and the eight in red, blue and ochre. Ambassador to Finland Edson O. Sessions is planning a ceremony in Helsinki Oct. 26 to correspond with the first day sale of these stamps.

The Postmaster General has just announced the four cent Robert A. Taft Memorial Stamp will have first day sale Oct. 4 at Cincinnati, Ohio. It will be the "Famous American" size, printed in deep purple, designed by William K. Schrage from a photograph by Harris and Ewing.

polity advisers — Kennedy's principal policy adviser and speech writer is Theodore C. Sorensen, a young Nebraska lawyer who joined Kennedy in 1953. Before proposed speech tests are forwarded to Kennedy, they are usually approved both by Sorensen and by Harvard professor Archibald Cox, coordinator of Kennedy's speech writers and academic brain trust.

Among important brain trust members who assist in speech preparation are J. Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard, author of "The Affluent Society" and "Brain trust" for Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956; Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Harvard history professor and former Stevenson brain trust; and Willard Cochrane of the University of Minnesota, Kennedy's principal agricultural adviser.

Other Kennedy speech writers include Richard Goodwin, Boston lawyer and Kennedy staff member; William Carter Magawood, on leave from Look magazine; free-lance writers Joseph Kraft, Robert Yeakum and John Bartlow Martin; James Sundquist, former speech writer for N.Y. Gov. Averell Harriman; economist Thomas Wilson; and Max Freedman, a Washington correspondent of the Guardian (Manchester, England).

With the party apparatus fully coordinated into his own campaign, Kennedy can campaign for President as the chief of the Democratic Party in a country which now votes normally Democratic.

County Club Formed At YMCA

THE FIRST meeting toward forming a Toast Master Club in Monroe County will be held at the Monroe County YMCA tonight at 8.

This meeting will be open for anyone who wishes to learn about the Toast Master Club. It is for both men and women. Jack Haswell will chairmen the group and outline the steps necessary in organizing a local group.

Registrations are now being taken at the YMCA for the opening of the beginners class in public speaking. Each year the YMCA offers this course and it has always met with popular approval.

Depending upon the number of registrations the course will get underway during the latter part of October and will continue weekly for ten successive weeks. This year the course will be under the direction of the general secretary, John Wilson.

Without realizing the change many of the participants develop a confidence and an ease of speaking before groups that at first seemed impossible, Wilson said. Plans and formulas for preparing a talk, how to maintain interest, use of the right word, getting the best out of one's voice plus other important items are part of the course.

Those interested are asked to call the YMCA, HA 1-2525 for further information and also for registering.

Sunday, Sept. 25, was Rally Day for the Methodist Church throughout America, and the churches of Dingmans Ferry and Sand Hill met together in the beautiful fields of Del Acres on the banks of the Delaware River. The occasion was blessed with a clear warm day for the outdoor service. A communal luncheon followed, with coffee and punch provided by the church while each family brought its own food, a happy custom that inaugurated "much sharing and tasting back and forth. The entire gathering was then called to attention by Sunday School Superintendent E. G. Wentworth and awards were presented by MYF Leader Bernard Navitsky and Sunday School Superintendent Mrs. Josie Howie of Sand Hill. Nineteen children and six teachers received perfect attendance awards. Craig Sweetman, whose perfect attendance record leads the school, received his 11th year bar. Promoted from Primary to Beginner's Class: Robert Heimbrook, Rose Marie Flury, Dewey Kingston, Dawn Wentworth and Paul Simmons. Promoted from Beginner's Class to Junior Class: Tommy Hotalen, Richard Love, Adrian Affigne and Glenn Sweetman. The congregations of Sand Hill and Dingmans Ferry expressed to Pastor Peter Love their pleasure at having this old-fashioned custom of an outdoor Rally Day reinstituted.

This Dream Home Includes A Pool In The Basement

EVER DREAM up a home plan that has some fabulous feature you particularly desire; only to find that the floor plan is impractical or else the home is just too expensive to build? Well... here's a real dream home within the price range of the middle income group. A cape cod style and a half structure with attractive front dormers and frame construction at upper floor, it's a design that is architecturally ageless.

As for that fabulous feature—this one is sure to rank foremost with practically every prospective homeowner. There's a first floor living room balcony, which overlooks the basement garden pool... notice how the view window provides light for pool area and the living room.

Bottom vents in the window provide ample ventilation for both basement recreation room and the living room. There is a metal railing in the dining room so that this lovely garden pool can also be seen and enjoyed from this area.

Let's study the general floor plan of this home: When you enter this home you find yourself in a compact zone that has a guest wrap closet; stairs to basement; stairs to upper floor; a 54 inch cased opening to the living room at the right and at the left is a short hall providing access to lavatory, garage and laundry room. You could hardly improve on this traffic circulation.

The balance of the first floor contains a large, separate dining room with four casement windows overlooking the garden; short balcony in dining room overlooking basement pool and the kitchen and laundry areas.

The upper story sleeping wing has a king-size master bedroom, which contains a separate bath with double bowl vanity unit and stall shower; twin wardrobe closets with sliding doors; a built-in window seat in the dormer and four casement windows for light and ventilation. Two more bedrooms are located at the rear of the home. Full bath and plenty of storage space completes layout of this floor.

So as you can see, here is a true "Dream House" for those desiring a home with a floor plan that stresses privacy and maximum function for each area.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. Included with this plan you receive Specification Guide, Material List and Conversion Detail Sheet. The plan contains 1,060 square feet and 28,306 cubic feet. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square or cubic foot in your area.

Complete Building Plan, including Detail Sheet, Material List, and Specification Guide for Des. No. H-472 may be purchased for $9.75 for first set; 2 for $18.25; 3 for $26.25; or 4 for $33.75. You may also purchase The Daily Record Plan Book showing 71 designs for 75¢ postpaid. Address all questions and orders to Homograph Home Plan Dept., The Daily Record, Warren, Michigan.

Wallpaper Mural Can Be Answer To A Problem Room

THE popularity of wallpaper murals is mainly due to the fact that they can do so much for problem rooms, says designer James Seeman, one of the country's foremost authorities on wall decoration.

"But many people still feel a perfect room is required for mural decoration," he says. "A mural is more suited actually to the problem room than any other since the results are so dramatic."

Walls interrupted by protrusions, for instance, are eye sores in a room. But it is possible to decorate around them with a scenic mural, he points out, and give the illusion of a flat wall.

Take the long narrow hall, for instance, found as often in swank residential apartments as in tenement homes. It may offer an illusion of depth just by choosing the right mural, one with a continuing scene such as a rolling country side or seascape.

"An illusion of height may be achieved with the right mural if that is the problem," Seeman says. "Use a mural with strong vertical lines, running directly from the baseboard." He illustrates this idea by showing a series of stylized trees, extending the upper tree top over the ceiling for some distance.

Dining rooms are usually more troublesome than other units in the home, having more broken-up wall space for some reason or another. Seeman advises following a mural directly around the room, skipping over the windows and doors as if they weren't there, and continuing the mural after each gap. "The eye will naturally follow the scenic mural, ignoring the blank spots," he says, and creating its own feeling of completeness and unity. In one dining room, furnished in early American style furniture, he used a rugged New England seacoast design.

A gay French street scene could be just the thing for the wall of a room furnished in French provincial furniture. In a Victorian living room, Seeman used a gay nineties scene.

After you've established the best design for your own particular situation, take a plumb line on the wall for proper measurement. Don't depend on door frames or ceiling lines to be accurate. Check carefully before you are stuck with an uneven wall mural.

Even though you may believe your strips are measured accurately, it is best to leave six inches top and bottom on each strip to allow for any errors. Murals should be marked for continuity by the manufacturer, and these should be sorted out, and the wall marked off before the first one goes up.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: While on vacation, our children collected some very excellent pieces of driftwood which we plan to use in various ways around the house. Can you tell us whether this can be varnished to preserve its appearance?

Answer: Yes, driftwood takes varnish very nicely. Be sure you like the slightly darker tone the varnish will give it. Try it out first on a small piece of the driftwood, which should be sanded lightly before the varnish is applied.

QUESTION: The other day I discovered a little pile of sawdust on the ground by one of the porch supports of our house. Is this caused by termites?

Answer: We'll assume that no one in your family did any sawing in that area and thus produced the sawdust. If that assumption is correct, the sawdust may have resulted from the work of carpenter ants. Unlike termites, they don't consume the wood but bore into it, leaving the porch support very closely and see whether there are tiny, slit-like holes in it. If there are, better get an exterminator quickly.

ON THE HOUSE

YOU CAN insure your home against almost everything that threatens it except the one thing that causes more damage than fire, flood or storm—the fifth column of moisture created within the house just by living in it.

The most immediately visible effect of this moisture is the blistering, cracking and peeling of paint on the exterior of the house. In fact, scientists blame 90 percent of exterior paint failures on water from indoors. The long-range effects are more serious. When an interior moisture problem is neglected for a considerable period of time, it eventually will cause plaster to crack and joints, studs and siding to swell, warp and rot. It also will make mortar crumble from between bricks, nails rust and concrete crack.

Where does this moisture come from? Studies at Purdue University show that a family of four can generate as much as 6½ gallons of moisture in the form of water vapor merely by going through the routine of living in a modern home.

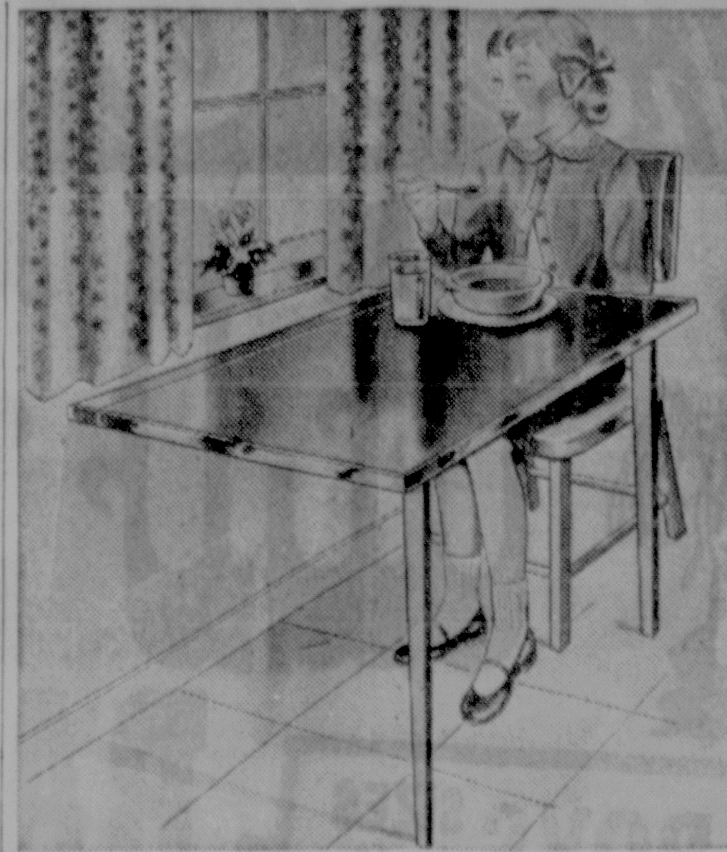

Breathing and perspiring release 1½ gallons in 24 hours. Doing the family laundry can add another gallon—and drying it indoors on a clothesline or unvented dryer can contribute 3½ more gallons. A shower adds half a pint of vapor to the air each time it's used. Cooking three meals a day contributes five pints more, with another pint coming from washing dishes.

How do we prevent the water vapor from entering the walls and doing damage? By interposing a barrier, called a vapor barrier, between the moisture and the materials that it affects. One type of barrier consists of a sheeting of some kind across the inner surface of the exterior walls when the house is being built. This sheeting can be asphalt-impregnated and surface-coated glossy sheathing paper, aluminum foil, wall linoleum, glossy surface-coated cloth and certain plastic sheetings. The other type of barrier consists of the proper kind of paint applied to the walls of the rooms themselves. In a new home, this has the advantage of being applied after all the other crafts have finished their work. A second advantage is that a paint barrier is comparatively inexpensive. In completed homes that have been built without a vapor barrier, it is the only feasible method of providing one.

As for the kind of paint to use, the scientific section of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn. says that gloss paints, oil-based primer sealers and varnishes are all good vapor barriers. They would be followed by whatever top coat the home owner desires. In an older house, a coat of primer-sealer would be applied over existing flat paint or over tight wallpaper. It is important that, when the painting is being done with an eye on the vapor problem, that the insides of closets, cabinets and other spaces against exterior walls also be painted.

Even when the walls are vapor-tight, there are other things that can be done to insure a complete victory over moisture. Clothes dryers should be vented to the outside. After showering or mopping, the bathroom windows should be opened a little until the moisture is dissipated. An exhaust fan in the kitchen will get rid of moisture as well as cooking odors. Attics should be ventilated with louvers of the proper size. And, if there is a fireplace, opening the damper from time to time will let moisture escape from the house.

Folding Wall Table That's Easy To Make

THIS folding wall table is the kind of step-saving equipment that anyone can build from readily available materials.

Whether you need additional space in the kitchen, dinette, living or playroom this folding table answers many needs. It requires little floor space when opened; practically none when folded against wall.

You don't have to be an expert to build furniture, household equipment or even a home of your own, if you follow a "Build It Yourself" pattern. These are so easy to use they take all the mystery out of building almost everything you can think of.

Men (as well as women) who never considered themselves handy with tools, are now turning ing out handsome pieces of modern furniture, built-ins of all kinds, even constructing homes and garages by following the pattern method of construction.

No special tools or skill are required. Thanks to contact and plastic products, a durable, high luster table top can be applied in a few minutes time. The table is cut to size required, then hinged to a cleat.

Pattern provides step-by-step directions everyone can follow and can be built to fit space available.

Send 25 cents in coin, check or money order for space saving wall table, pattern No. 26 to The Daily Record, P.O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send 35 cents additional for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build-it-yourself projects.

Serving The Area For Over 30 Years

PLYMOUTH for 1961 has a complete new look of beauty and a new ride of stability. Long an economy leader in the low-priced field, Plymouth in 1961 has made major engineering and styling gains in the areas of economical operation, trouble-free driving, luxury-car appearance and solid riding characteristics. Twenty-six different models, five engines, four different transmissions, and 14 body colors and 30 two-tone body color combinations are offered in the 1961 Plymouth. The proven Unibody construction and Torsion-Aire ride have been retained and there is a long list of new engineering features. See the 1961 Plymouths soon at Sheller & Kitchen in Stroudsburg.

Delaware River Port Seen 'Solid'

THE DELAWARE River port has not collapsed as a result of the first year's operation of the new Seaway, according to a special report in the September Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia entitled "The St. Lawrence Seaway to the Sea."

The St. Lawrence Seaway, a joint venture of Canada and the United States, affords deep-draft, split-level navigation from the mouth of the St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior, and a tremendous amount of hydro-electric power to boot. After dredging deeper channels between various sections of the Great Lakes to attain a system-wide 27-foot depth, the total cost of the Seaway and power installations will come to about $1.4 billion. Technically, the St. Lawrence Seaway is that portion of the St. Lawrence River between the eastern end of Lake Ontario and Montreal.

Below Expectations

Traffic through the Seaway during the first year of operation did not come up to expectations. The 20 million tons of cargo lifted in 1959, though 75 per cent better than the tonnage hauled through the shallower channel the preceding year, nevertheless fell short of even the most conservative estimates. Analysis of the traffic reveals the importance of the Seaway as a channel for trade within Canada, trade between Canada and the United States, and a grain export route for both countries. Tonnage-wise, the Seaway is essentially iron ore and grain waterway, as these two commodities accounted for over two-thirds of the bulk carried.

Scott Notes No Clobbering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said Tuesday in the first Nixon-Kennedy television debate both men came off well and neither "clobbered the other."

Scott said that Vice President Richard Nixon, the Republican nominee, appeared in Monday night's debate to look to the future with confidence while Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, views the future with fear.

Scott predicted Nixon would carry Pennsylvania despite a reported Democratic registration margin because "the voters are more for the man than for party ties."

Episcopal Church Services

THE FEAST of St. Michael and All Angels will be observed in Christ Episcopal Church, Stroudsburg, with a celebration of the Holy Communion on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

This particular feast was especially popular in the English Church in the Middle Ages, though its institution goes back to the fifth century, when a basilica was dedicated to St. Michael on the Via Salaria, a little north of Rome, the first church in Italy in honor of the archangel.

In this feast the church honors the angels, those spiritual beings, those "energies with personalities," not subject to the limitations of time and space, who serve God to His praise and our benefit in ways beyond our imagining.

"Please, Albert, not with all those satellites taking pictures."

Christian Witness Mission Seek Youth Fellowship Aides

NEWFOUNDLAND — The annual Christian Witness Mission, in which members of the Greentown-Newfoundland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship will visit homes of potential MYF members with an invitation to join the fellowship, has been planned for Sunday, October 2.

A discussion of the mission was held during the business session Sunday night at the Moravian Church at which Gerald McLain presided.

The mission will begin at 5 p. m. with a snack supper, covered dish, at the Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, Greentown. After the supper and brief worship service, the young people will divide into teams and cover the areas designated.

The groups will return to the church before 9:30 p. m. for refreshments and to report on their activities.

The members voted that a golden letter of commendation and appreciation be sent to Dag Hammarskjöld over the signatures of the fellowship.

A recommendation that new membership cards be prepared by the fellowship was approved by the group after a discussion. On the committee to recommend the form of the card were John Hazelton, Michael Newcomer, Terry Staph, Douglas Smith and Gerald McLain. This committee will present its suggestions for approval at the next business meeting.

Thanked Members

Carroll Fetherman, president of the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair Association, thanked the fellowship members who had sold booster tags this year at the fair.

Preceding the business session, the fellowship joined in a hymn sing with Jane Beehn at the piano.

The program was a panel discussion on "The Lord's Supper," in preparation for the World-Wide Communion Service on October 2. The Rev. Arthur Campney discussed "What Is a Sacrament?" The Rev. Larry Lindenmuth detailed the theology of Holy Communion. Robert Voeste described the service in the Methodist Church, and Rita Robacker detailed a typical Moravian service.

The ministers noted that Holy Communion is five things: (1) a memorial and profession of faith; (2) a tangible pledge of forgiveness; (3) a covenant; (4) an emblem of fellowship; (5) confirmation of assurance that we have received eternal life.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I'm progressing in my rehabilitation as a typical small-town American. I can wear shoes now. After a summer in sandals, you'd be amazed at how vulnerable heels are to the pressure of conventional shoes, no matter how well-fitting.

I can also stay awake after lunch—although weaning myself from the afternoon siesta was almost as painful as the shoes. But I doubt if I'll ever feel really at home as long as so much of my thoughts remain in Rome with my son.

I was beginning to doubt whether he was ever coming home when I got a letter saying that the only thing holding him up now was the sale of his motor scooter. He has a buyer but the paper work is so involved that it has taken them two weeks and they're not finished yet. Oh yes, that and deciding on the cheapest means of transportation home.

I missed the chance of a lifetime by just one day," he wrote regretfully. "A chance to sail as crew on an 80-foot sailboat going to the U.S. via 28 or 30 ports, eight weeks, no experience necessary." Selfishly, my first reaction was relief that I wouldn't have the experience of worrying out eight weeks of wondering whether he was on or under the Atlantic.

But my second reaction is to wonder whether he might be contemplating a raft. That's the trouble with mothers—no sense of adventure; for anybody but themselves, that is.

However, I'll have to admit to a smacking admiration. Anybody who can get to Europe on a string bass might just make it home on a raft.

Morgan Speaks To Hamilton PTA On Sight

Projects for the year were discussed and refreshments were served by the second grade home room mothers.

Brownie Leaders Are Named In Newfoundland

Newfoundland — Election of officers, naming of patrols, and listing of patrol members were featured during the meeting of Brownie Troop Two at Southern Wayne Joint School with Mrs. Emil Wohlfart in charge.

Leaders named in addition to Mrs. Wohlfart for the year were Mrs. Pauline Gilpin and Mrs. Trudy Tobey. Phyllis Cron was granted a month's leave of absence from her post.

Assistant junior leaders chosen were Kathleen Croft, Bonnie Price and Joan Bancroft. Peggy Tobey was elected president; Linda Gilpin, vice president; John Webster, secretary; Nancy Haldaman, treasurer.

The Busy Bee Patrol named Elaine Bronson leader and Kathleen Butler assistant leader, and includes in its membership Susan Newcomer, Jane Young, Mollie Burkem Barbara Simons and Margaret Campbell.

The Angel Patrol did not elect a patrol leader this week but named Patricia Wolter assistant patrol leader and included Ruth Ann Schoenagel, Trudy Krieger, Carol Zane, Brenda Keiter and Candace Price.

The third patrol did not decide on a name but chose Bertha Camp as patrol leader and Anita Croft as assistant, and included Joan Webster, Peggy Tobey, Linda Gilpin, Sharon Haag and Mary Campbell.

A visitor during the session was Mrs. Sheerer, of Greentown, formerly of Allentown, who will assist in scouting in the area.

Named to the colorguard for a month were Ruth Ann Schoenagel, captain; Joan Webster, Kathleen Butler, Anita Croft and Peggy Tobey. Fly-ups were Melissa Burdick, Gail Butler, Shirley Bronson and Sallie Fitz.

Miss Arlene Kauffman Bride Of John M. Frailey

The Reeder's Methodist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Arlene Leora Kauffman, of 724 Tilghman St., Allentown, to John Marshall Frailey of Stroudsburg RD 5, and its social hall for the reception for 150 guests which followed.

Rev. Gerald Miller performed the double ring ceremony in a candlelight service held at 8 p.m. on August 20. Bouquets of white gladioli and greens and palms decorated the altar with bouquets of white gladioli on the organ and peach gladioli on the piano.

Mrs. Horace Werkheiser was organist and Charles Snyder soloist. He sang "Through the Years," "When God Is Near," "The Love of God" and, while they were kneeling, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Kauffman of 218 Spruce St., Lewistown. Mr. Frailey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Verdon E. Frailey, of Stroudsburg RD 5.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace over net and taffeta with a scalloped neckline outlined with seed pearls with three quarter sleeves and matching lace mitts. A crown embroidered with seed pearls held her elbow length veil and she wore pearl earrings. She carried a white Bible with floral decorations of daisy pompons, baby breath, and streamers of pompon buds.

Miss Velma Kauffman of 1851 Park St., Harrisburg, served as her sister's maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of silk organza over net and taffeta in raspberry with a matching plixie headpiece trimmed with pearls and carried white carnations with a center of blue carnations in the form of a cross.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ardeth Kauffman, 218 South 20th St., Harrisburg, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Eckhart, 1864 Highland Drive, State College, wore similar gowns in romance blue and their cross bouquets were of carnations with a white center.

Diane Doll, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a miniature of the gowns of the bride's attendants in white silk organza over romance blue taffeta with a matching blue headpiece. She carried a basket of white and blue button pompons.

Gregory Frailey, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer, with John and Joan Frailey as ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Rothrock High School and the bridegroom of Pocono Township High School, and both are graduates of East Stroudsburg State College and are now teaching: the bride at South Mountain Junior High School, Allentown, and her husband at Northampton Senior High School.

They are now residing at Witko Traller Court, Allentown, RD 4.

Smithfield PTA Cited For Past Gains, Future Plans

The Smithfield Parent-Teachers Assn. opened its 14th year on Monday night with its president, Morgan Hebard, cataloguing some of its past achievements.

The Smithfield PTA established the first hot lunch program in the county; the first elementary school library; and the first display of fine art.

The fine art display program is being continued through a PTA grant of $75 this year to the fine arts committee with Mrs. David Cartwright, chairman, and Mrs. George Devin and Mrs. Morgan Hebard assisting.

Hebard also outlined the PTA objectives for the new year "To Develop the physical, mental, social and spiritual education of our children."

Alan Sterner, principal, also praised the program of the PTA, pointing out that the local program has won a Gold Star among PTA's for the past four years for the excellent quality of the programs. He also prophesied the same success for the current series of programs on "Operation Information From Our Professionals," arranged by George Levin. Copies of the program were distributed at the meeting.

Mrs. Joseph Lyons was elected as vice president. Other officers introduced included Mrs. Raymond Van Gordon, secretary; Earl Brister, treasurer. Mrs. Robert Nichols, chairman of the library committee, called for volunteers. She is continuing to work for the library although her own children have been moved to the Stroudsburg schools. Mrs. Arthur Ackerman, chairman of home room mothers, also called for volunteers.

Mrs. John Simms, chairman of membership, and Mrs. Edward Bollard, chairman of publications, invited parents to sign up with them. A budget for $1,724.26 was approved for this year's expenditures. Part of the funds will be raised by two dinners to be held at the Marshall's Creek firehouse, one in the Fall and one in the Spring.

The business meeting was followed by visits to the classrooms where teachers outlined the program for the term's work. Refreshments were served with Mrs. Harvey Huffman, hospitality chairman, in charge.

Plans for the annual Communion Breakfast of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's were discussed by the breakfast committee at a meeting on Monday night at the school auditorium.

Mrs. Eugene Powers, chairman, announced that the breakfast will be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on October 23 at 10 o'clock following the 8:30 a.m. mass at St. Luke's Church. Her committee includes: Mrs. Charles Bensinger, arrangements; Mrs. Edwin Millard, hospitality; Mrs. Jack Boushell tickets, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Edward Driebe, tickets, Stroudsburg; Mrs. A. M. Hickey, music; Miss Marie Brown, program.

Miss Mary Zabresky of Swoyersville will be the guest speaker. Music will feature Mrs. Kent Miller as soloist with Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis as accompanist. Also present for the meeting were the society's president, Mrs. Arthur Blewitt, and the chairman of last year's breakfast, Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis.

It was announced that new candidates would be initiated at the next meeting when officers are requested to wear white.

The Secret Pal banquet will be held October 19 at 6:30 at Varkony's with reservations and transportation arrangements to be made with Ann Divine, HA 1-6762.

The Book Club will resume its meetings on Thursday night at 8 at the home of Mrs. Allen Zahorik with "Hash" on the menu — including the summer reading of its members.

Morgan-Huzil Wedding At Brodheadsville Church

Saylorsburg — Edward L. Morgan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller of Saylorsburg, took as his bride Miss Dorothy T. Huzil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Huzil of 25-69 Thirty-third St., Astoria, N.Y., on Saturday, September 24 at 11:30 a.m. in Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church, Brodheadsville.

Rev. E. Robert Galligan performed the ceremony with Edmund Kozlowski as organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta, fashioned with a Queen Ann collar sprinkled with sequins and a basque bodice with long sleeves. The bouffant skirt was paneled in lace and decorated with appliques. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a crown of sequins and lace trimmed with pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli with blue statice and baker fern.

Miss Irene Huzil was her sister's maid of honor, and wore a waltz-length gown of champagne nylon net. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink pompons and carnations.

Robert E. Miller of Saylorsburg, was his brother's best man. A reception was held at the Lily Pond Lodge, Saylorsburg. The bride is a graduate of William Cullen Bryant High School in Queen's, N.Y. Mr. Miller was graduated from J. P. McCaskey High School, Lancaster, in 1956. He served in the U. S. Marine Corps, receiving his basic training at Parris Island, and was stationed in Okinawa. He is now employed with PP & L, Stroudsburg.

They are making their home in Saylorsburg.

The Wyckoff Shopper

the friendly store

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

One of the funniest things that occurred during Women's Days was something I myself did . . . and while the joke is on me, I enjoyed it as much as anyone. During Friday and Saturday there were a tremendous number of announcements to make over the amplifying system, as we awarded hundreds of prizes to customers. All went well Friday, but on Saturday there was some trouble . . . everything sounded muffled, and nothing was going over distinctly.

After much twisting of buttons and dials, our switchboard operator, Velma Post, felt everything was at last under control. "Test it," she suggested.

Glibly I took mike in hand and stated, "We are testing. If you cannot hear this announcement, kindly dial our operator." I should of course, have said, "if you cannot hear the announcement clearly."

Then, like a prize dope, I waited for the switchboard to light up. It didn't. "I guess everything's all right now, I decided.

A few minutes later, the heckling began. My telephone would ring and someone would say, "Mrs. Maloney . . . why should we complain we haven't heard you if we're not sure you said anything?" A good point, of course, and my stupidity set me giggling.

I remembered how our entire family had laughed a number of years ago when an elderly great aunt received a letter from a crony with whom she had lost contact for a time. "If you don't receive this letter," the postscript read, "let me know and I'll send you another."

An innocent variation of the old vaudeville joke, "Meet me in front of the postoffice. If I get there first, I'll make a chalk mark. If you get there first, rub it out."

Two events I have much enjoyed recently were my visit to The Antlers, at Swiftwater, with our Wyckoff millinery show, and the Tea and Coke party for freshmen girls of our State College Saturday afternoon.

Arthur and Marion Widmer assisted with Friday night's show, and I was thrilled to learn that The Antlers, with its log-burning fireplace, iron-grilled front door, and old fashioned paintings and mirrors, is actually the resort Joan Toms and her husband purchased a number of years ago. Joan was an employee of Wyckoff's for a time, and we much regretted losing her, for she was as efficient as she is pretty.

The hats were stunning, and the models were attractive women of the Swiftwater area who wore them with distinction. The most breathtaking hat, fashion-wise, I think, was a towering creation of white mousse covered with sprays of velvet flowers, mostly pink and iridescent, priced at 19.98. Maude Walton had asked that I model it at the end of the show if the other girls could not wear it . . . but Delores Patrylak looked lovely in it, so she complied. As a matter of fact, this year's very tall hats were made for her . . . she is just the right size to wear them with grace.

I myself wore a handsome Betmar hat of black velvet with a crown that narrowed at the top. The brim spilled over with tiny black and white feathers nestled in marabou . . . and, frankly, I had to blow the "fluff and stuff" out of my eyes every now and then to see what I was doing. At 16.98 this is a superb hat, however, and if it does nothing for you, it makes you more understanding of poodles. Poor little things!—bet they miss half of whatever passes by them!

The freshmen college girls, who were our guests, were just about as charming and pretty a group of young women as I hope ever to see assembled anywhere. At least 200 of the 316 registered at State College were our guests, and all were friendly, easy to chat with, and gay. The only complaint they seem to have is their beanies, which they must wear until the end of October. Cute as those caps are, the girls consider them unbecoming.

Our basket of favors contained silk head scarves . . . wiggle head Japanese dolls . . . golden Bells of Sarna . . . and Japanese letter openers of bone. Guess what the girls liked best? The wiggle head dolls. Bells next, to tie to their dormitory doors. Just between us, even Dean Ruth Jones chose the dolls. And we all had a happy time!

Bitter About Treatment

Norris Quits Boxing; Ring Empire Dead

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—A bitter Jim Norris, Tuesday renounced all connection with professional boxing and declared a finish to the National Boxing Enterprises.

Norris, wealthy sponsor of the original International Boxing Club, officially bowed out of boxing at a news conference on the eve of the final Wednesday night boxing TV feature in Chicago Stadium.

Wednesday night, Eddie Perkins meets Gene Gresham in the final TV bout in the stadium, capping a nine-year history of boxings golden television era.

Regrets Start

"I'm sorry I ever got into boxing," said millionaire Norris, who has been under congressional fire for alleged affiliation with shady characters in boxing.

"I don't want to be sacrilegious, but I would say that even if Cardinal Spellman got into boxing, in two weeks he would be a discredited man," said Norris, a part owner with Arthur M. Wirtz of the Chicago Stadium.

"I tried my best to bring good boxing to the public of America," said Norris, "but my enemies—so vague as they were—beat me down. Now, our organization is quitting, an impossible situation."

"What the so-called reformers have accomplished in boxing might be, I don't know. They have made us turn 'square,' so they say, but where is boxing today?"

Lack of Talent

"There is a horrible lack of boxing talent at the moment and promoters everywhere are hitting their heads against a stone wall. There is no incentive to develop a boxer."

The original International Boxing Club was organized in 1949. The IBC, early in 1959, was reorganized in Chicago with the National Boxing Enterprises. After that, it was just a matter of the NBE dying on the TV vine.

TV boxing will continue on Saturday nights, but the Chicago Stadium TV boxing show shape.

Yanks Win 11th Straight With Duren As Starter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ryne Duren, in the alien role of starting pitcher, struck out the first five Washington Senators he faced Tuesday night as the American League champion New York Yankees rolled to a 5-1 win, their 11th in a row.

Duren, making his first start in two years, equaled a modern era baseball mark in the first two innings but wound up walking in a run before he left for a pinch hitter in the fifth.

Series Prep
Manager Casey Stengel, preparing for next week's World Series, gave the tall right-hander an opportunity to prove he is in shape.

Eli Grba, who followed for New York after Duren walked home Washington's only run in the fourth, hurled three hitless innings and received credit for the victory. Don Lee, who started for the Senators, yielded but two runs and two hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Lee took the loss.

Home run—New York, Skowron (26).

FUTURE MANAGER? — Rocky Marciano (right) poses with Mt. Bethel heavyweight Eddie Yakencheck before the undefeated amateur's last fight in Scranton. Marciano has expressed an interest in signing Yakencheck to a pro contract.

Yanks Sell Tickets

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees announced Tuesday they would accept mail orders for World Series games at Yankee Stadium immediately.

A limited number of box and reserved seats will be sold by mail only. There will be no "over the counter" sale of these tickets.

Mail orders will be limited to no more than two sets per customer. Each set consists of one ticket for each of the three games scheduled for the stadium. Reserved and box seats will be sold only in sets.

The series opens in Pittsburgh, Wednesday, Oct. 5.

Send Money

Orders will be accepted only from the Yanks' recognized ticket territory. The orders must be accompanied by a certified check or banker's cashier check, U. S. money order or express money order. Other orders will not be honored. No telegraphic money orders will be accepted.

The price of two box seats for the three stadium games will be $63.00—$31.50 per box seat for the three games—and the price of the reserved seats will be $44.10—$22.05 for each of the three games. A $1.00 fee for mailing and handling must be added to each order.

Checks should be made payable to the New York Yankees and mailed to Yankee Stadium. Orders postmarked prior to this published announcement will be returned.

Yakencheck To Battle Philly Heavy

JOE THOMPSON, a novice heavyweight, will face Eddie Yakencheck in the feature bout of the Varsity "E" boxing show Saturday night at East Stroudsburg Memorial Stadium.

Thompson won his first fight by a knockout on the same Friends of Boxing show that Yakencheck defeated Wilson Camada, also of Philadelphia a month ago.

Yakencheck, who is seeking his fourth straight win against Thompson, three of them by knockouts.

David Hummel, a Bangor farm boy, has been matched with Jimmy Wetzel from Pottsville in a lightweight bout.

Eight Bouts

The first bout on the eight event card will start at 8. Fighters from the Scranton area, Wyoming Valley, Philadelphia, Pottsville and the two local fighters will make up the talent for the outdoor production.

The Friends of Boxing, which is securing the fighters, has training centers in Scranton, Dunmore, Honesdale, Carbondale, Oliphant and Old Forge. The FOB also brings in as many outside fighters as possible for its cards.

Birds Blast Bosox 17-3

BOSTON (AP)—Baltimore's Orioles, fighting for second place in the American League, scored early and often Tuesday in battering the Boston Red Sox 17-3.

The ambitious Birds began mildly enough with a pair of runs in the first inning, and then added four in the second, four more in the fourth to place the game far out of reach of the seventh-place Bostonians.

Face West Chester Next

Warriors Ranked Third In Defensive Rushing Yardage

EAST Stroudsburg State College's third ranked (NAIA) defense gets its severest test of the young football season, when it travels to West Chester Friday night to meet one of the nation's strongest small college football teams.

West Chester has not lost in two outings, beating Ft. Eustis, Va., and Ithaca, while East Stroudsburg lost to Millersville 6-0 in its opener and blasted Kutztown 61-0 Saturday.

The Warriors, who led the nation in consecutive shutouts last year with five and were second in total shutouts with six, behind Sugar Bowl champion Mississippi, are seeking another defensive title this year.

Coach Jack Gregory's Warriors allowed only 33 yards rushing in two games. While NAIA statistics have not been released for this week, the Warriors gave up only 20 yards on the ground to Millersville to earn the third spot nationally in defensive rushing for the first week of the season.

Millersville gained only 118 yards in total offense which pushed East Stroudsburg into 14th position in that defensive category.

This week's statistics will probably send the Warriors higher in the national rankings.

Kutztown managed only 13 yards against East Stroudsburg and 71 yards in total offense.

The Warriors also have an individual statistical leader, freshman Bobby Gross, from Maplewood, N.J., who has averaged 45.3 yards on five punts, which ranks him seventh nationally. His longest, was a 49-yarder that travelled 60 yards in the air. However, punts are measured only from the line of scrimmage.

West Chester, under its new head coach Jim Bonder, has been impressive in its two games and the Rams' sophomore fullback Joe Iacone, has stamped himself as a shoo-in Little All-American.

Iacone is reportedly as good a back as a sophomore, as Bill Shockley was as a senior, with last year's Ram squad.

Shockley broke the Pennsylvania State College Scoring record with eight touchdowns and 31 conversions. He is now a starting halfback for the New York Titans of the American Football League.

Iacone, from suburban Philadelphia's Radnor High, has gained more than 350 yards in two games and is probably the hardest runner in the conference.

East Stroudsburg has not beaten West Chester since 1954, when the Warriors took a 14-13 decision. The win came after a 12-year wait for East Stroudsburg, who had not been able to get by West Chester since 1942, when it won 26-0.

East Stroudsburg has scored only seven points in its last four games against the Rams and has not scored in a West Chester game since 1956.

In that same stretch, West Chester has accounted for 123 points.

West Chester holds a 19-4 edge in the East Stroudsburg series, which began in 1926, with several off years in between.

Friday's game will be a "homecoming" for Warrior backfield coach Charles Reese, who graduated from West Chester in 1952 after an outstanding football career there as a end.

Law To Pitch Opener

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Vernon Law, Pittsburgh's 29-game winning right-hander, definitely will pitch the opener of the World Series against the New York Yankees here Wednesday, Oct. 5.

Law most likely will be opposed by Whitey Ford, the veteran left-hander, who has been Manager Casey Stengel's nominee all season to start the important series.

If Ford goes, Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh will start his "right-handed" lineup. That means Dick Stuart will be at first base, Hal Smith behind the plate and Gino Cimoli in center field.

Friend To Follow

Murtaugh indicated very plainly that Law was his man, to be followed by Bob Friend, another right-hander, in the second game. Either (Vinegar Bend) Mizell or Harvey Haddix, both left-handers, will pitch the third game, when the teams switch to Yankee Stadium.

Murtaugh is a man of few words but he strayed from character when asked whether he had heard the whisperings that the Pirates might tighten up against the experienced American League pitchers.

"Listen," he said, "we respect the Yankees but we're certainly not scared of 'em. Were not underestimating them but the Yankees better not underestimate us. We got a good ball club and we're not worried about any pressure. Shucks, we've played under pressure all year."

"We've been underplayed all year. When we went into first place last June, the consensus was that we would stay there only temporarily. When we hit a little skid and slipped into second place, the cynics said: 'I told you so.'"

"But we moved right back in there. What's the word for this club? Resiliency?"

"Any club that can bounce back as often as we did will not succumb to pressure."

ESSC Opens Soccer Slate

EAST Stroudsburg State College opens its 10-game soccer schedule at Normal Hill at 3 p.m. today against Ithaca College.

Coach John Eller will have eight letter-winners in his opening line-up including All-American Ernie Howe, outside right.

Only two freshmen were able to crash the Warrior line-up and a West Chester transfer, Nelson Lodge may start in place of one of the freshmen, Karl Dickl at the inside left spot.

Two injuries have weakened the Warriors. Letterman Don Schuler hurt his knee and Joe Bean injured his leg. Schuler will be sidelined today but Bean is a doubtful starter.

Winning Records

Last year's squad finished with a 5-3-1 record.

Besides Howe, Schuler and Bean, Eller has letter-earners Sheldon Chamberlain, Claus Graef, Joe Habakus, John Hamilton, James Kilmer, James Male, Allan Oberholzer, Tom Rider, and Barry Wray returning.

Harry Shirk and freshman Paul Grube are the only definite non-letter winning starters.

RULES

- 23 football games this weekend are placed, one in each ad on this page. Indicate winner by writing in the name of team opposite the advertiser's name in the Entry Blank. No scores. Just pick winners.
- Pick a number which you think will be the highest number of points scored by any one team on this page and place this number in the space provided in Entry Blank. This will be used to break ties.
- One entry only to each contestant. Entries must be brought to the office of this paper or postmarked no later than this Friday 5 P.M.

After the Game...
